Chinese Ringneck Pheasant

The most popular of breeds, our Ringneck Pheasant is used primarily for stocking and hunting. The weight of our Ringnecks at maturity (22 weeks) is 2.7-3 lbs. for the cocks and 1.7-2.2 lbs. for the hens. These hardy birds adapt readily to the wild and are prized by sportsmen for their excellent flying ability and brilliant colors. For years our Ringnecks were primarily blue backed pheasants with yellow flanks. We are transitioning our Ringnecks to have more green (along with the blue) on their backs and to have deep yellow to orange flanks.

Manchurian/Ringneck Cross Pheasant

An excellent flight bird, the Manchurian/Ringneck Cross is similar, though slightly larger in size and weight to Chinese Ringnecks. The mature Manchurian Cross cock weighs approximately 3.25 lbs. and the hen weighs 2.5 lbs. on average. They are a cross between our Chinese Ringneck and the pure Manchurian Ringneck which we imported, as eggs, from China in 1989. MacFarlane Pheasants is the only farm to have imported pure Manchurian eggs and have the pure Manchurian bloodline. Pure Manchurian pheasants are well-known for their wildness and the Manchurian cocks have a small distinctive white feather on the sides of their heads near the ear. We found that crossing the Pure Manchurian with the Chinese Ringneck produced a very hardy and vigorous bird that is great for hunting.

The Chukar Partridge weighs around 1 lb. and has well-defined black and white bars on the flanks. It has a black band running from the forehead across the eye, down the head, and back to the other eye, which gives it a bandit type appearance. Because of its explosive nature and agility in the air, it makes a popular sporting bird across the country.

Kansas Ringneck Pheasant

Often viewed as the most beautiful strain of pheasant by many in the industry, the Kansas Ringneck Pheasant is one of the lightest and flightiest pheasants on the continent. The median weight of the hen is 1.75 lbs. while the cock registers around 2.5 lbs. In addition to great looks, the Kansas Ringneck Pheasant is an explosive flyer that is great for driven shoots as well as continental shoots. They are also a nice field hunting bird and used on many hunting preserves with great success. If you are looking for a great all-around performer with long tails and beautiful looks, this may be the bird you should consider.

Extra Large Ringneck Pheasant

The largest pheasant breed offered by MacFarlane Pheasants is the Extra Large Ringneck. This breed is primarily Mongolian blood and is a challenging bird for dogs to get into flight as it tends to be a ground runner. The cock typically weighs between 3.5-4 lbs. and hens 2.5-3 lbs. at maturity. This bird is often used by clubs and growers for meat production. It's recommended that you get your orders in early to ensure you'll be able to secure your desired hatch dates for the Extra Large Ringneck.

A pure breed, these large, beautiful pheasants feature an iridescent, greenish-black plumage. A favorite variety for release, they display a remarkable ability to survive and reproduce in the wild. Like the Manchurian/Ringneck Cross pheasant, the weight of the mature Melanistic Mutant cock is 3.5 lbs. and 2.5 lbs. for the hens.
