

Welcome To MacFarlane Pheasants

Thank you for considering MacFarlane Pheasants, Inc., a family owned and operated business since 1929. Years of experience and dedication to the pheasant business has given us a wonderful advantage of knowing what our customers want and deserve. Caring for pheasants is our livelihood, and over the years we've learned what our pheasants need to grow into healthy adult birds. We test our breeding stock monthly for Avian Influenza and participate in the National Poultry Improvement Plan. We strive to have the best pheasants and chukars and the best customer service! Our website www.pheasant.com is filled with information that will help you in virtually every area of rearing birds. Our customer service goal is for you to be able to speak directly with one of our managers within an hour of your call (during regular business hours) if you need assistance. When choosing MacFarlane Pheasants you are choosing a business that will support you every step of the way.

What Makes Our Hatchery Stand Out From The Rest

- We include 5% free chicks in every order.
- During colder months, we include a 60 hour heat pack in postal orders and use a heavy duty box that has smaller ventilation holes for less heat loss.
- During warmer months, we put fewer chicks per box and use boxes with larger diameter ventilation holes to improve airflow.
- Each compartment of the chick box gets a strip of GroGel. GroGel is a gelatin that provides hydration, vitamins and nutrients that help the chicks get off to a great start.
- We include styrofoam on the inside and outside of the box. The styrofoam insulates them from extreme temperature, hot or cold.
- Boxes are banded together to ensure reliable transport.

Chinese Ringneck Pheasant •

The most popular of breeds, our Ringneck Pheasant is used primarily for stocking and hunting. The weight of our Ringnecks at maturity (22 weeks) is 2.7-3 lbs. for the cocks and 1.7-2.2 lbs. for the hens. These hardy birds adapt readily to the wild and are prized by sportsmen for their excellent flying ability and brilliant colors. For years our Ringnecks were primarily blue backed pheasants with yellow flanks. We are transitioning our Ringnecks to have more green (along with the blue) on their backs and to have deep yellow to orange flanks.

Kansas Ringneck Pheasant •

Often viewed as the most beautiful strain of pheasant by many in the industry, the Kansas Ringneck Pheasant is one of the lightest and flightiest pheasants on the continent. The median weight of the hen is 1.75 lbs. while the cock registers around 2.5 lbs. In addition to great looks, the Kansas Ringneck Pheasant is an explosive flyer that is great for driven shoots as well as continental shoots. They are also a nice field hunting bird and used on many hunting preserves with great success. If you are looking for a great all-around performer with long tails and beautiful looks, this may be the bird you should consider.

Manchurian/Ringneck Cross Pheasant •

An excellent flight bird, the Manchurian/Ringneck Cross is similar, though slightly larger in size and weight to Chinese Ringnecks. The mature Manchurian Cross cock weighs approximately 3.25 lbs. and the hen weighs 2.5 lbs. on average. They are a cross between our Chinese Ringneck and the pure Manchurian Ringneck which we imported, as eggs, from China in 1989. MacFarlane Pheasants is the only farm to have imported pure Manchurian eggs and have the pure Manchurian bloodline. Pure Manchurian pheasants are well-known for their wildness and the Manchurian cocks have a small distinctive white feather on the sides of their heads near the ear. We found that crossing the Pure Manchurian with the Chinese Ringneck produced a very hardy and vigorous bird that is great for hunting.

Chukar Partridge •

The Chukar Partridge weighs around 1 lb. and has well-defined black and white bars on the flanks. It has a black band running from the forehead across the eye, down the head, and back to the other eye, which gives it a bandit type appearance. Because of its explosive nature and agility in the air, it makes a popular sporting bird across the country.

Extra Large Ringneck Pheasant •

The largest pheasant breed offered by MacFarlane Pheasants is the Extra Large Ringneck. This breed is primarily Mongolian blood and is a challenging bird for dogs to get into flight as it tends to be a ground runner. The cock typically weighs between 3.5-4 lbs. and hens 2.5-3 lbs. at maturity. This bird is often used by clubs and growers for meat production. It's recommended that you get your orders in early to ensure you'll be able to secure your desired hatch dates for the Extra Large Ringneck.

Melanistic Mutant Pheasant •

A pure breed, these large, beautiful pheasants feature an iridescent, greenish-black plumage. A favorite variety for release, they display a remarkable ability to survive and reproduce in the wild. Like the Manchurian/Ringneck Cross pheasant, the weight of the mature Melanistic Mutant cock is 3.5 lbs. and 2.5 lbs. for the hens.
